NEW STATE LIBRARY.

TO ADVERTISE AT ONCE FOR BIDS.

The Plans of the Building and the Site of Its Location ... Much Criticism Expressed at the Action of the Board.

The State Library Board was in session for three hours yesterday afternoon and discussed the working plans for the new Library building, which is to be erected on the slope of the Capitol Square in front of the stables connected with the Executive mansion. Mr. W. M. Poindexter, the architect, was present and explained the details of the plans. it was decided to advertise for proposals for the construction of the building, which are to be received until noon of September 20th. Each bid is to be accompanied by a certified check for $5,000 and the bidder whom the contract will be awarded to is to give a bond of $50,000 for his compliance with the provisions of the specifications. The general instructions and specifications can be seen at the office of the architect, 1320 F street, Washington, and at the Capitol after August 29, 1892 DISSATISFACTION

There seems to be a good deal of dissatis-faction among the public in regard to the selection of the location of the Library buildhave talked to quite a number of business men on the subject during the past few days and I have yet to find one who is in favor of the location. All were more or less outspoken in their objections and thought that a far more suitable site might have been selected. Some of them sug-gested that the square be chosen on which the old City Hall now stands, while others were in favor of an enlargement of the Cap-itol building. A few suggested that it might have been a good plan to add another story to the building on Eleventh street where the Court of Appeals is at present

The site which has been selected by a majority of the library board and against which Governor McKinney and Auditor which Governor McKinney and Auditor Marye protested at the time, is at the easterly end of the Capitol Square in front of the southerly end of the stables. The building is to be constructed in the shape of an L and the wing is to be erected between the stables and the Davis House. In order to get access to the building from the square it will be necessary to cut a roadway through the prettiest part of the park and several of the shade trees will have to be sacrificed. Besides at least a dozen trees will have to be cut down to clear the neces-sary space for the building. In order to get the building material on the grounds it is intended to cut down the flower garden on Governor street. If this plan is carried out it will necessitate the cutting down of the ground at least twenty feet for a distance of about two hundred yards.

STATED BRIEFLY.

The objections which have been raised by the several parties whom I have conbuilding on the site selected can be given briefly as follows: The building would be cut off entirely from any breeze coming from the west and north, and any wind from the south would only strike the upper floor. The front of the building is to be on the west side, and the large porch which is to be constructed there would not be a very cool piace in summer time. It is claim very cool place in summer time. It is claimed by a well known civil engineer in this city that the foundation for the building will cause a good deal of trouble. There is a spring running through that part of the park, and it is said that at the lower end of the building it will only be possible to lay the foundation after only be possible to lay the foundation after piles have been driven. On account of the sloping condition of the ground the lower and will be at least twenty feet below the upper end; as a matter of fact all the rooms basement will have to be under. When asked whether the appropriation of $200,000 would be sufficient to said that in his opinion that amount would do to erect the building with, while the members of the library board say that the ng will be co ceeding the appropriation.

TO REPAIR THE CAPITOL. Mr. N. R. Gaines, superintendent of public when spoken to on the subject, called my attention to the fact that within a few years attention to the fact that within a few years it will be necessary to repair thoroughly the top of the Capitol building, the timber of which is decaying very rapidly. He added that one of the timers who recently put a new gutter on the roof told, him that the timber was so rotten that it would not hold a nail. Mr. Gaines thought that it would be more in the interest of economy to enlarge the Capitol building. If a separate Library building was erected it would necessitate the employment of an additional night watchman, policeman and janitor. heeman and janitor.

ARABS ACTUALLY ABOUT. ATimes Man, Electric Car. Three Negroes and a Broken Romance. I was approached in a myterious and confidential way yesterday by a man who wanted to know if I had seen the Arabs and Torks in town, and if not, why not, and this gentleman went on to expatiate on the great "story" there was in it till my brain almost reeled.

I saw in my mind's eye visions of the desert, of the lean, wiry and sun-brouzed sons of the sands, of turbans and crooked cimeters, of the long-flowing robes of the tribal shelk, of the patient camels, and all the other belongings of the nomads of Arabia. Then if closed my eyes in ecatacy as an electric car carried me along towards the precincts where these presumable wonders Visions of the unspeakable Turk floated before my mind—of the grave, bearded faces of the followers of Mahomet, sitting cross-legged, smoking calmly, sipping coffee, and plously ejaculating their belief in the houghts of the black-eyed hours of the harem, flitting about with half-veiled faces, and voices sweet as bul buls. in gaury and disphonous after, rushed through my brain. My informant had told me of the wonderful tricks of magic that these people did, and I expected a second edition of the howling dervishes that are entertaining the morbidly inclined sight-seers of the metropolis just

These gentry are indulging in such delightful pastimes as chewing glass bottles, swallowing live coals, eating live snakes, sticking swords through their anatomy in various places—all being done after hours of howling, and frantic whirling, and twisting, and sputterings, working themselves into a ferocious frenzy.

"Bang" went the bell of the electric car and out I jumped, not a thousand miles from Rocketts, on a corner where several colored men were peacefully dozing on beer harrels. Inquiring of these they told me "dem" ar furriners is up stars, but we in't he erd nuthin' 'bout no tricks dee duz," and up I walked and down dropped my mercury of romance and fancy, for I simply found two men and two women resting themselves in the heat of the day, one of whom told me in good English that they came from Tripoli several years ago and they came from Tripoliseveral years ago and were selling small articles on the streets and in the markets. He added that he had not done much in Richmond. So away flew the "story" I was preparing for to-day's paper, and I bade them "good-day" and went down to the county court-heuse to a magistrate's trial of a negro for stealing a water-meion. It was such a good one I quite forces whim for it, too. gave him forit, too.

Preparing for the Campaign_To Invite Prominent Speakers.

The officers of the City Cleveland' and Stevenson Campaign Club held a meeting in the hustings court-room last night. The chairman, Colonel John B. Cary, called them to order at 8:30 o'clock, and Captain Alexander Coke, the secretary, was in his

Among those in attendance were: Major Charles P. Bigger, Captain John A. Curtis, Mayor J. Taylor Ellyson, Mr. Jackson Guy, ex-Postmaster Cullingworth, Messrs. Thomas B. Hicks, James T. Ferriter and James L. Anderson. The chairman, Colonel John B. Cary, announced that the object of the meeting was to devise some plans for the holding of meetings during the campaign, to arrange for the time and places of holding tham and the securing of promi-nent speakers from Virginia and elsewhere to address the voters.

Among the eminent men whom the club will endeavor to secure are A. E. Stevenson, our candidate for the vice-presidency: Ex-Speaker Crisp, Senator A. P. Gorman, Sen-ator David B. Hill, Colonel John R. Fel-lows, Mr. W. Bourke Cockran, Senator John W. Daniel, Hon, Isadore Hayner, of Maryland, and Hon, Holmes Conrad.

On motion of Captain John A. Curtis, a committee to carry out these ideas was appointed by the chairman, to consist of Hon.

J. Taylor Ellyson, Mr. Jackson Guy and Colonel John B. Cary, and they are to move at once in the matter. The idea is to have at least three rousing meetings, one in September, one in October and one on the eve of the election in November.

On motion of Mr. Cullingworth a committee of five was appointed to look after the financial part of the arrangements for speakers and places of meetings, and the Chair appointed the following: Hon. J. Taylor Eliyson, Mr. Charles V. Meredith, Mr. H. L. Pollard and Mr. W. H. Cullingworth, To these the chairman. Colories worth. To these, the chairman, Colonel John B. A CLEVER PIANIST.

Miss Toot, of Danville, Entertained a Number of Music-Lovers.

A very clever young planist in the person of Miss Kate Leigh Toot, of Danville, visiting her uncle, Mr. Charles H. Toot, of this city, was heard by me yesterday afternoon. Mr. Manly B. Ramos had invited a few lovers of music to hear her, who assembled at his music-rooms at 6 o'clock, Among them were Messrs, A. Salle Watkins, George J. Hooper, Jr., W. O. Burton, Thomas N. Kendler, John Marton, J. Ellis Cook and Mr. I. Burns Brown, of New York, representing a large piano house.

Miss Toot, who gives evidence of much talent and careful study and application, played with grace and expression the "Barcarolle" in F minor. Opus 30, of Rubenstein; the "Spinner-Lied" (spinning song), from Wagner's Flying Dutchman, Liszt's arrangement, and the delightful "Bercense."

pus 57, of Chopin. She delighted her auditors, and yielded to entreaties for another number, giving Schu-bert's "Erl King," Liszt's arrangement, I predict great things in music for this young lady Frank W. Cunningham and Mr. H. Thurston Cardozo, who were among the audience, were called upon, and responded with songs in their well-known pleasing style. Captain Cunningham sang first Schubert's "Am Meer" By the Sea), and Sir Jules Benedict's "By the Sad Sea Waves." Sir Jules Benedict's "By the Sad Sea Waves."

Mr. Cardozo's rich voice was heard in the "Awake" of Stephen Adams to good effect, and was especially pleasing in Meyer-Helmund's ballad, "Thou Art Near Me, Margharita." Then Mr. Shepherd Webb, the organist of Centenary courch, played the "Screnade" of Moskowski in good style, and closed an hour of music that was a pleasure to all who were fortunate enough to be there.

THE LITTLE ROOSTERS

FROM THE MOUNTAINS OF BEDFORD

Failed Again to Win the Game and Will Go Home Sadder but Wiser Santams-The Store Was Seven to Two.

And it came to pass that a team of strolline players landed among us, who were wont to distinguish themselves from the common herd by bearing the self-applied appollation of champions. And they had good intentions, for verily they were eager to smite the sphere all over its face, and show the great unwashed dwellers of Richmond how to play base-ball. And they were mighty, yes even in their own estimation, and they strolled upon the field in the evening of the first day like so many bantam roosters in a barn-yard. And, lo! the sheep-raisers and boom town manufacturers of Forest Hill dallied with the men of the mountains, and verily the Bedford Citvites were surprised and wroth, and lo: some foamed at the mouth later in the day in consequence, for many of them had spot cash on their clothes unspent; and as the aug lowered itself into its couch of clouds and pulled a few fleecy flakes over as a mosquito netting the contest ended and the people from the mountains were white-washed.

And in the evening of the second day they appeared on the field and played ball with the men of Richmond, and verily they met the same fate as before, for the Giants played ball with great force, and the score stood seven to four when the contest closed.

ON THE THIRD DAY. On the evening of the third day—that day being yesterday—the men from the land of mountains again contested honors with the land-boomers and cattle-raisers from over the river. Verily the contest was a slow one and lacked life, for the men from the Peaks of Otter played like so many nice, newly-painted wooden Indians, and the men from the land of forests were as slow in getting to bat and field as the electric cars are when there is a fire down town; and lo! the Bedford Cityites were not in it, and the Manchesterians had something like a leadpipe cinch, and rejoiced in their hearts when they saw the sphere richocheting all over the field. They sent four men to the but and failed to score in the first inning. but the Mountaineers succeeded in sending one man across the plate.
Wigmore was first at the bat, received his second. Brodie's bit to the centre scored the run. In the second the Colts went out in the one, two, three order, as did also the Monntaineers.

A pretty bunt by W. Bradley gave him his first in the third, and Quaries hit to Brodie, who threw to Wigmore, ending Bradley's career at second. Quaries reached first and a balk gave him second. A passed ball sent him to third, and a wild throw put him on home plate. Kain followed and struck out. B. Bradley reached first on called balls, and Tate's three-bag drive to right field scored the run. Tate took too much risk and went out at third.

Wigmore again commenced the inning in the third and knocked a foul to Luck. Keeler made a hot drive to centre, and a wild throw by Luck put him on second. A

In the sixth the Forest Hill citizens again Tate not finding a good ball to hit, received his base, and a passed ball sent him to second. Luck struck out, and W. Lipscomb sent Pop across the rubber. J. Lipscomb struck out, and Reynolds sailed a fly to Colburn, leaving W. Lipscomb on base. The Mountaineers got as far as base. The Mountaineers got as far as second, but Riley struck out and ended the inning. A BLANK SEVENTH.

Neither of the teams scored in the seventh or eighth, but three runs went to the credit of the Colts in the ninth. Reynolds began and stopped at first. W. Brailley received a slap on the leg and was presented with first base. Quaries' hit sent him to second and an error by Colburn advanced both runs as lasse Kain reached first. both men a base. Kain reached first on a fielder's choice and Quarles stole up to third. W. Bradley on the ball hit by up to third. W. Bradley on the ball hit by Kain attempted to steal home and went out at the plate. B. Bradley's hit drove in Quarles and Kain, the latter doing some pretty sprinting. B. Bradley reached second on a passed ball and Tate's two-bagger sent the runner across the rubber. Tate for the second time in the game was put out at third and ended the inning. One, two, three is the way the Mountaineer ended up the game, and the four hundred spectators left the Island pleased with the result, but tired.
